

Census Made Simple Release 2

Age and Sex Counts

Age and Sex Distributions

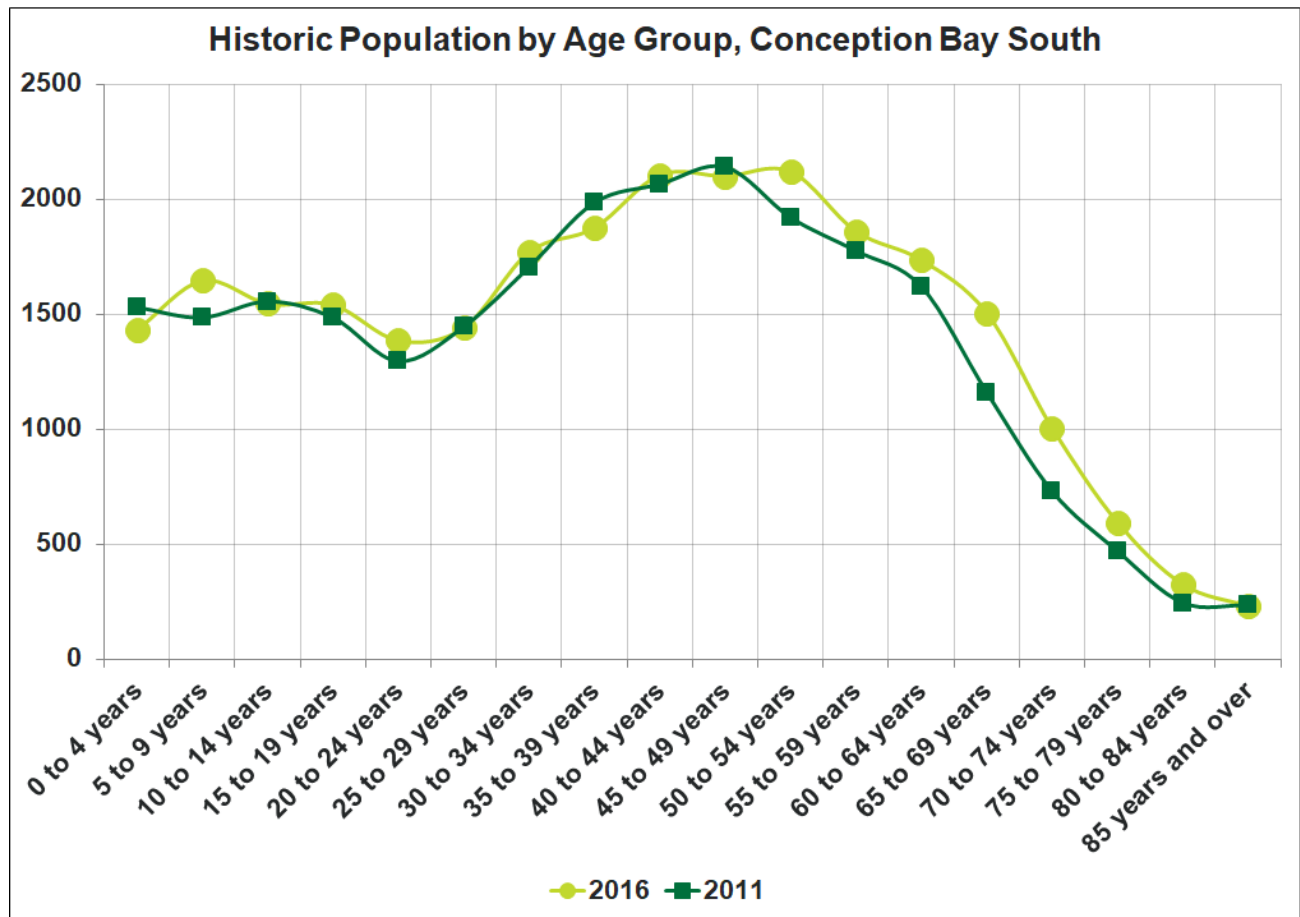

Census Made Simple Release 2

Age and Sex Counts

Historic Population by Age Group

Average Age

	2006	2011	2016
Conception Bay South	38.3	39.8	39.8
Newfoundland and Labrador	41.7	44	43.7
Canada	39.5	40.6	41

Census Made Simple Release 2

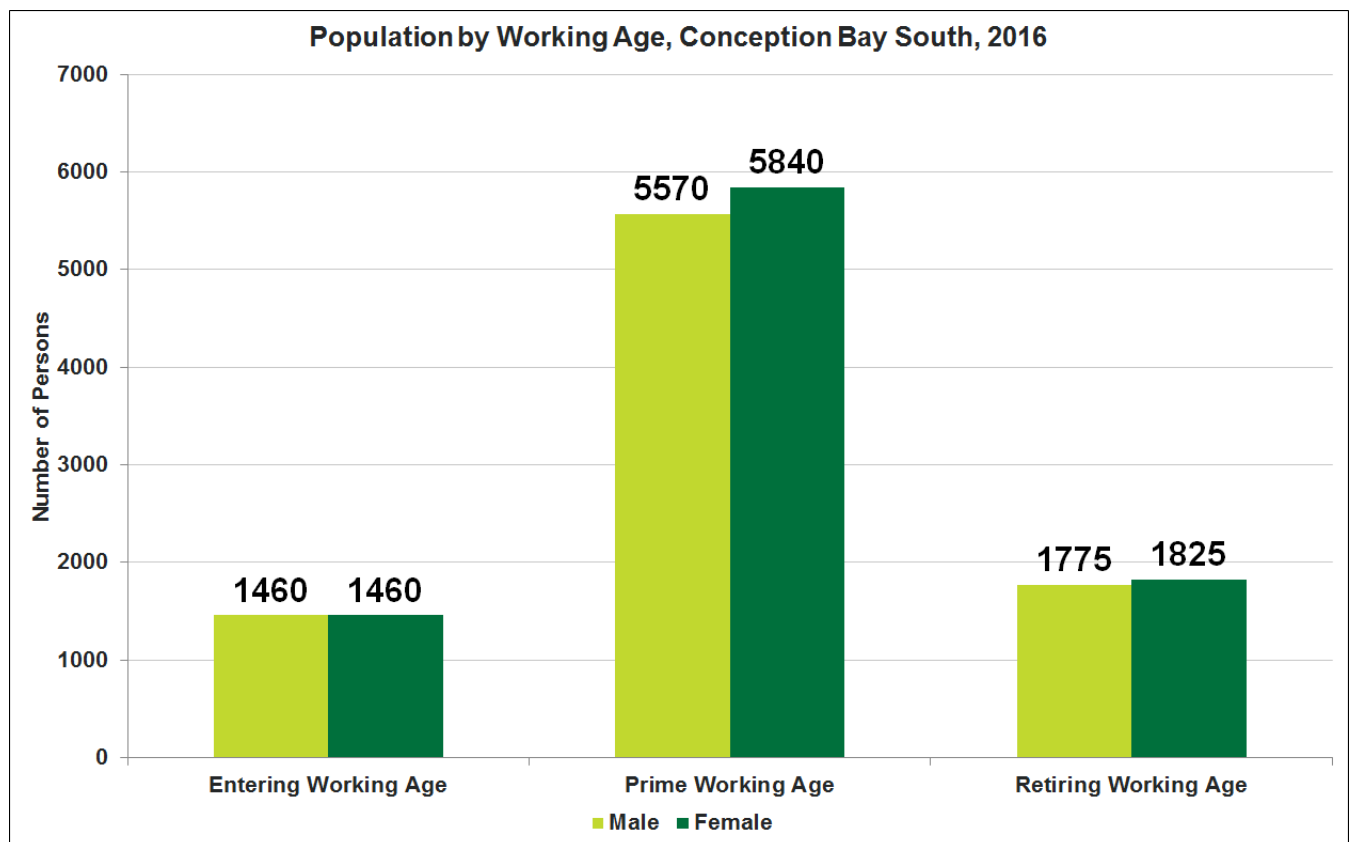

Age and Sex Counts

Quick Facts

- The distribution of age and gender shows the largest age group as 50 to 54 years of age followed by 40 to 44. Females outnumber males in the older age groups 65 and over. Males outnumber females in the younger age group (19 and under).
- The average age of residents in Conception Bay South is 39.8 years of age. When compared to the rest of St. John's CMA, Newfoundland and Labrador and Canada, Conception Bay South has a lower average age.

Population by Working Age and Gender

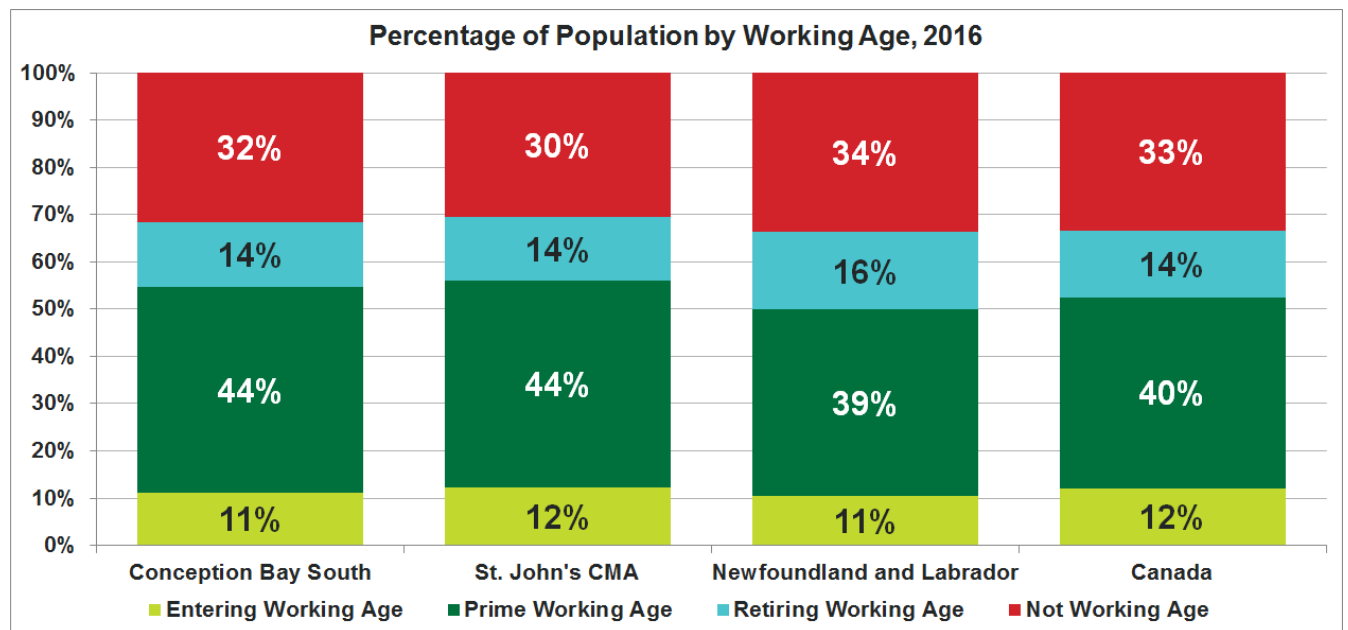

Census Made Simple Release 2

Age and Sex Counts

Percentage of Population by Working Age

Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) defines three standard working age groups: people aged 15 to 24 (those just entering the labour market following education); people aged 25 to 54 (those in their prime working lives); people aged 55 to 64 (those passing the peak of their career and approaching retirement).

Quick Facts

- The distribution of working ages shows that the largest working age group as 25 to 54 years of age. Since 2006 this group has increased by 1,055 number of working age residents.
- In comparison to the Province and Canada, Conception Bay South has a larger proportion of prime working age group at 44%. Since 2006, this group has increased by 10%, while the rest of St. John's CMA has also increased by 8%.